JAZZ/INSTRUMENTAL

As in the first album, many tracks are influenced by ancient and classical music, other by acoustic blues music, reminding a minimal attitude with ambient, progressive, jazz, gothic, ethical ... influences. The mood and the inspirations in this album are similar to the ones of the first release, and create dreamy atmospheres, but even if the music is completely acoustic in spirit, a moderate use of effects and electronics completes the new project.

The shadows grow longer as the sun inclines towards the West, and the day's activity begins to wane. As one grows sensitive to the natural cycles, the rosy hues of twilight become an invitation to meditation. The soft, lyrical tones of the dilruba attuned to the ringing notes of the tambouras build an experience of quiet and serenity that one yearns to return again and again.
